DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 101

1. 35 U.S.C. 101 reads as follows:

Whoever invents or discovers any new and useful process, machine, manufacture, or composition of matter, or any new and useful improvement thereof, may obtain a patent therefor, subject to the conditions and requirements of this title.

2. Claims 26-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 101 because the claimed invention is directed to non-statutory subject matter. The system as interpreted based on the specification may be reasonably interpreted as software-per-se.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1-34 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Sakurai et al. (6,965,599).
5. Sakurai teaches a method and system (abstract) of processing communication packets based on classification (col. 1, line 1 – col. 5, line 5; col. 11, line 40 – col. 12, line 40) wherein the connection is determined based on the type of packet (col. 5, lines 1-45). In particular, the class is determined by a communications data structure (col. 5, line 45 – col. 6, line 30) to determine what modules the packet should pass through (col. 6, line 25 – col. 6, line 65), the module list being editable (col. 6, line 65 – col. 7, line 20), and wherein the structure uses pointers to determine which modules the packet should pass through (col. 7, line 20 – col. 9, line 55).

Conclusion

6. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. They regard further teachings on packet classification and processing.
